Goal

Abel & Cole aimed to launch a micro-influencer strategy to enhance brand visibility, build authenticity and trust within their community, and diversify their customer acquisition channels.

Challenge

They'd run occasional macro-influencer campaigns, but the high cost made it unsustainable — and managing smaller influencers directly was time-consuming and hard to scale.

We were already working with Mention Me on our referral programme so this felt like a natural next step of advocacy. We can now work with successful referrers at scale as micro-influencers.

Solution

Expanding into a micro-influencer strategy was the natural evolution of Abel & Cole's advocacy strategy.

Already working together on their referral program, this next step allowed them to engage their most passionate advocates—their top referrers—at scale.

The intuitive nature of the platform has helped Abel & Cole transform what was once a time-consuming channel into a streamlined, self-sustaining part of our marketing mix.

The platform is easy to use and has allowed us to scale micro-influencers much quicker than we would've been able to in-house. We can track our performance closely from the outset and get full visibility into our key KPIs. We've found this to be a lot more effective than standard affiliate, cookie based tracking".
