The Italian home retailer has made scaling their micro-influencer programme a breeze with the help of Mention Me's AI-powered platform.

Goal

Dalfilo first invested in influencer marketing to boost brand awareness. But as macro-influencers became too expensive and less profitable, they shifted focus to micro-influencers with more relevant and engaged audiences.

Challenge

Scaling their micro-influencer programme soon became difficult. The manual process of finding influencers was time-consuming, and affiliate tools were no longer sufficient. Dalfilo needed an intuitive, end-to-end solution to grow effectively.

It was becoming really time consuming and difficult to manage and scale a micro-influencer programme ourselves. That's where Mention Me was able to jump in!

Solution

Within minutes, Dalfilo can identify hundreds of new profiles of existing customers who already love the brand and are excited to join the programme.

Managing content is simple too — all tags, stories, and posts are automatically captured and stored in one place with no risk of losing them. The seamless payment solution is another major benefit: unlike their previous affiliate platforms, Dalfilo's influencers now have full visibility and control over their earnings.

The programme integrates seamlessly with Dalfilo's referral programme, with new customers acquired through influencers often going on to refer others.

Because of the superior user experience for both them and their influencers, Dalfilo have migrated all existing influencers to the Mention Me platform. They have then been using AI lookalikes to find even more micro-influencers in their base.

With Mention Me, we manage our entire influencer programme from a single, intuitive platform. It simplifies everything — from discovery to tracking. This helps us to focus on building real connections.
